Drought Resistance

Despite the favourable moisture conditions prevailing in the Prairie Provinces during recent years, we must not forget that drought is still the greatest hazard in the production of crops and livestock.

There is no evidence that the amount or seasonal distribution of rainfall can be influenced by man, in spite of claims sometimes made by enthusiastic tree planters. Therefore, all we can do is to make better use of the rainfall we get. Broadly speaking, this is done in three ways. The first involves water-saving devices, such as dams and dugouts for farmstead water supplies and even for small scale irrigation. The second involves tillage practices which prevent or reduce runoff and which control weeds.

The third method is concerned with the use of drought resistant varieties or crops. A drought resistant crop is one which makes efficient use of a limited supply of moisture. For example, crested wheat grass is drought resistant; timothy is not. Similar, though smaller, differences may be observed between different varieties of wheat. On the open plains, where moisture is usually limited, some varieties yield more than others; but the differences are less pronounced than that between crested wheat grass and timothy. Writers and speakers who offer hope that the drought problem will be solved by resistant varieties as was the rust problem are false prophets. Our wheat breeders will make progress but it will be slow and gradual. Don't look for a "Russian Thistle" wheat variety.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO PAINT!

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES:-

Outside Painting

Be sure the surface is dry; let the sun or wind dry it out after a rain. Remove dirt from corners, putty up any cracks and holes. Don't lay the paint on too thickly—you'll get a better job if you brush it on sparingly. If you apply more than one coat, let the first coat dry thoroughly before putting on the second one.

Inside Painting

Make certain your surface is clean. Remove any film of grease or dirt from walls or furniture, especially in the kitchen, for instance. It's a good plan to wash surfaces with soap and water before painting; if you do this, be sure to let it dry first. Smooth your wall surface by plastering holes and cracks, and sandpaper rough places in furniture, before applying your paint.

Most Important of All:-

Let the whole family have a say in settling on your colour scheme. Ask your Sherwin-Williams Dealer to lend or show you his beautiful Paint & Colour Style Guide—it's full of good ideas on decoration and painting.

Use only the best paint, varnish or enamel. Good paint costs so little in relation to long-lasting results obtained; cheap paints only bring you disappointment eventually. Sherwin-Williams Products give you colours that really last and real protection against wear and weather.

Consult your Sherwin-Williams Dealer. He will gladly give you valuable assistance and advice and will supply you with the right Sherwin-Williams Paints for each purpose—the utmost value for your money.

Their nosegays were of sweet peas and cornflowers.

Donald Moodie attended his brother as groomsman. Flight Sergeant, S. Hershey and Mr. Hugh Benson acted as ushers.

Mrs. E.R. Percy played the organ. Just before the bride entered the church and during the signing of the register Mrs. I. McArthur rendered lovely solos of Oh Perfect Love and Oh Promise Me.

After the ceremony a reception was held at 1651 Keele Street. The bride's mother received in a gown of heaven blue brocaded sheer and wore a corsage of pink roses and the groom's mother wore a lilac crepe ensemble with a corsage of yellow roses.

The happy couple left for their honeymoon at Niagara Falls. For traveling the bride chose a turquoise blue wool dressmaker suit with brown accessories and wore a corsage of thistle roses.

Rev. Father Tombre officiating.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in a queen blue street length dress with pretty blue viling hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of pink delight roses bridal fern and larkspur clusters. Her single ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

As bridesmaid, the groom's sister, Rose chose an afternoon dress of traditional rose crepe with matching hat and accessories. Her colonial bouquet was centered with pink and white carnations bound by blue pyrethrum.

The mother of the bride chose a triple sheer two-piece dress of mid-summer rust, white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The grooms mother wore a black lace dress, matching accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The groom was supported by Arnold Ellard as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Biggar Hotel with 25 guests attending. The all-white, three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature page boy and flower girl set amidst rose tulle. Vases of beautiful garden flowers completed the arrangements.

For the wedding trip to Calgary the bride donned a smart, fine polka dot, two piece suit of jersey silk, with tiny flowered hat and white matched accessories.
